Dear Family and Friends of Soldiers of the Leyte Dragons of 1st Battalion, 34th Infantry Regiment (1-34 IN REGT)

Greetings from Fort Jackson!

Your Soldier has arrived safely at Fort Jackson, South Carolina and is assigned to 1st Battalion, 34th Infantry Regiment, for Basic Combat Training. 1-34th IN REGT has a long distinguished history of service dating back to 1916 and enjoys the reputation as one of the best battalions at Fort Jackson.

As you know, Basic Combat Training is not easy. It is a challenging experience that transforms volunteers into trained, disciplined, physically fit and motivated Soldiers who espouse the Seven Army Values, understand the importance of teamwork and who are determined to complete their initial enlistment. For many Soldiers, the ten weeks with 1-34th IN REGT will be the toughest thing they have ever accomplished in their lives. I assure you that our Drill Sergeant and Officers, who are an absolutely first rate team of professional Soldiers, will do their best to assist in this transformation. We're honored to be your Soldier's first unit in the Army.

Your Soldier has committed themselves to the Army and we will challenge them to ensure they train to meet the Army standard. We encourage you to foster their morale with supportive mail and correspondence. In the event that an emergency arises involving an immediate Family member that requires your Soldier's presence, contact the American Red Cross at 1-877-272-7337. The Red Cross will contact the battalion and assist the Soldier in returning home on leave. Please make sure you keep this Red Cross number so you have it readily available should the need arise. We will not be able to assist you without Red Cross verification.

During Basic Combat Training, we curtail certain privileges such as the use of phones, receiving food items in the mail and visitation. While in our care, we will provide your Soldier quality meals in the dining facilities. Because of this and for health reasons, we do not permit Soldiers to receive, possess, or store food.

You and your guests are invited to attend the graduation events at Fort Jackson, South Carolina on October 12th, 2011 and October 13th, 2011. Over the next several weeks, your Soldier will make significant progress in the important areas of discipline, character, values, marksmanship, physical and mental conditioning, and teamwork, bringing them one step closer to their goal of graduating Basic Combat Training. No doubt, the prospect of these achievements makes you very proud and we hope you will join us in the celebration of your Soldier's accomplishments. We would like for you to share in the spirit of patriotism and express camaraderie with your Soldier as well as the Families of other Soldiers from across the Nation. Make a day of it and witness your Soldier's tremendous accomplishments. We invite you to Fort Jackson for a fun-filled day to see what Army Basic Combat Training is all about! WE'RE LOOKING FORWARD TO YOUR ARRIVAL!

The graduation events span two days, with Family Day on Wednesday and then the Graduation ceremony on Thursday. This will be an exciting time for the Soldiers and yourselves and we trust your Soldiers will be in good hands during these two special events.

Family Day will take place at Hilton Field, scheduled to begin at 9:00am on Wednesday, October 12th, 2011. There will be a short series of military orientation speeches by the Battalion and Company Commanders, and spokespersons from the Red Cross and Army Community Services. Upon completion of the speeches, you will meet with your Soldier. Your Soldier may then be authorized a pass, allowing you to spend the remainder of the day with them while experiencing the amenities and military life on the installation (see Note 1). *Please monitor our facebook site: <http://www.facebook.com/134AlwaysForward> for any changes. On Wednesday evening, we will also host a graduation banquet in your Soldier's honor, either at the Officers club or NCO Club. I hope you can join your Soldier at this meal and meet their Drill Sergeants.

The 1-34th Infantry Regiment Graduation Ceremony will take place at Hilton Field at 9:00 am on Thursday morning, October 13th, 2011. This is when your Soldier will officially join the long line of distinguished men and women who, since 1775, have defended our freedom. We expect to graduate approximately 1,000 Soldiers. In case of inclement weather, graduation will be held at the Solomon Center (SAC). Map of Fort Jackson and all graduation activities location will be provided at the front gate. Due to limited seating in the SAC, the graduation ceremony will be held at various times. The graduation time for Alpha and Charlie Companies will be 9:00am – 10:00am and graduation for Delta and Echo Companies will be from 11:00am – 12:00am.

Upon conclusion of the Graduation on Thursday, October 13th, 2011, Soldiers with Family members present may depart after receiving their departure instructions / briefing from their Company Commander (see Note 2). Those Soldiers accompanied by Family but not departing immediately may be granted a pass to visit the surrounding Columbia area (see Note 3).

We request you stop sending mail to your Soldier two weeks prior to graduation. Fort Jackson is the largest training facility in the Armed Forces and we process countless pieces of mail daily. It will be in everyone's best interest if you wait until your Soldier reaches his or her next duty assignment before you send mail, otherwise your Soldier may not receive it before graduation. Even next day air or priority mail may not reach your Soldier in time.

Upon arrival through Gate 4 at exit 12, if you have any additional vehicles with Family members, you can receive a vehicle pass by showing a valid driver's license and vehicle registration with insurance to the Officer's on duty. It is very important for you to continue confirming your Soldier's progression (i.e. graduation status) through Basic Combat Training. Occasionally, a Soldier's graduation date is delayed due to an injury, illness, or training requirement. Sometimes a Soldier may graduate a week early to meet subsequent Advanced Individual Training (AIT) requirements. We will tell your Soldier to inform you as to whether or not they have met all graduation requirements before you travel to Fort Jackson. However, often Soldiers choose to inform spouses and significant others instead of informing all family members of their graduation status. That, we have no control over but ask that you continuously write and ask that your Soldier keep you up to date on their graduation status.

If you have questions or need more information, visit our web site at <http://www.facebook.com/134AlwaysForward> or send an email to ATZJ-C-F@conus.army.mil. If sending an email, please include the Company your Soldier is assigned to; we have nearly 1,400 Soldiers assigned and this will assist in alleviating confusion.

I hope to see you at our graduation events. Our Battalion motto is "Always Forward!"—You will hear your Soldier say that phrase often when you arrive!

Always Forward!
